

THE TERMINAL
WISHES
Everybody
A

AND
A Happy
NEW YEAR

The Terminal is the oldest newspaper in Richmond and has the confidence and support of pioneers

RICHMOND TERMINAL

The Terminal boosts and advertises Richmond, directly increasing your property values.

VOL. XIII

RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1915

NO. 1

Local News Budget For Holiday Week

Cut the grouch.

A Merry Christmas.

Start off the New Year right.

The merchants all say business exceeds last year.

Pullman shops employ almost 600 men, and it is not unlikely that by February 1000 will be working.

G. W. Cushing was granted an extension of 90 days in which to complete the paving of Anita avenue and 31st street.

The funeral of James Carroll, the popular employe of the Western States Pottery, who was killed by a S. P. train Sunday while gathering mushrooms, was held Thursday. The pall bearers were Thos.
Duffy, Thos. Vizard, Chas. McCue,
P. T. Duffy, P. Herbert and Mike Malone.

Read the new advs.

Miramar Chapter Order Eastern Star installed new officers Tuesday night in Fraternal hall. A fine program was rendered, followed by an elaborate banquet.

A. B. Fleming of San Pablo was reported seriously ill from an attack of bronchitis. Mr. Fleming is warden of the Catholic church, and a resident of this section for the past fifty years.

The Christmas program rendered at St. Mark's Church Tuesday night was one of the best of the holiday season. Father Griffin arranged the entertainment, which accounts for its success.

Otis Mills, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Anderson, who has been confined to his bed for several weeks with typhoid fever, is reported to be convalescent and on a fair way to recovery. Mr. Mills had not fully recovered from a bad case of blood poisoning when he contracted typhoid.

Santa Claus On His Way to Visit Richmond Kiddies

THE accompanying picture is the latest of Santa Claus, taken by The Terminal's special artist, who caught Santa unawares while he was emerging from Capwells Toyland Zone en route to Richmond.

Home Products In California

The Californian gets up at the alarm of a Connecticut clock; but tosses his Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls; washes his face with Cincinnati soap in a Pennsylvania pan; sits down to a Grand Rapids table; eats Kansas meat with Kansas peas cooked with Indiana lard on a St. Louis stove; puts a New York bridle on a Colorado broncho.
fed on South Dakota corn; plows a five-acre farm covered by an Ohio mortgage, with a Chattanooga plow when bedtime comes he reads a chapter from a bible printed in Boston, says a prayer written in Jerusalem, crawls under a blanket made in New Jersey, only to be kept awake by sand fleas, the only home product on his place.—
Exchange.

City Briefs.

Carpenters are busy improving the front of the Hotel Terminal on Macdonald avenue and 2nd street.

Dr. C. R. Blake is quoted as follows: "Richmond's chances for securing a county laboratory where tests for milk, foods, water and blood might be made were very probable."

Mrs. King, mother of Frank G. and Joseph B. King of this city, a former resident of Richmond, died at her home in Merced, Tuesday.

Stern's Bazaar.

Stern has a big holiday display of Christmas Gifts and world's of Toys for the kiddies. Stern has the largest assortment of appropriate holiday presents in Richmond. He is the old reliable. Give him a call. No. 214 Macdonald avenue.

Where business is going it pay, to improve property, for it will yield incomes.

Damage Suit Set For Next Monday

The damage suit for $25,000, for a libelous article appearing in the Daily News directed against James P. Arnold, former chief of police of Richmond, has been set for next Monday, postponed on account of the holidays. It is reported that labor leaders are soliciting funds to defend the News case, which is on appeal from the decision of the Superior Court, favorable to Mr.
Arnold.

The expense of installing an exhibit at San Diego by the city of Richmond as planned by various manufacturers would amount to between $300 and $500, and a man at a salary of $25 a month to attend to the exhibit. On account the expense Richmond will not have an exhibit.

Read the many holiday announcements.

Insurance Company Paid Up Promptly

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Davis, who lost their San Pablo home by fire last week, received their insurance promptly from the Fire Insurance Co. of North America, H. G. Stid-ham, local agent, effecting a quick adjustment. The Davises will rebuild. They wish to thank their many friends for kindly assisting when misfortune befell them.

Advertising Pays.

The common supposition that advertising is an expense is a fallacy. It is a bugaboo made of thin air and a yellow streak. The fact of the matter is, that the non-advertiser PAYS for it out of the business he loses to competitors who do advertise.

The State University expenditure for the year ending June 30, were $2,727,618.

Newspaper Publisher Clamoring for Fair and Equitable Distribution of Patronage

The Crockett Signal computed the cost of county printing from bills allowed at the board of supervisors' meeting, held December 5.
Our sugar town contemporary finds that five Martinez and Richmond papers (all dailies) received $2,019, nine weeklies only $76.93. One weekly was allowed $526 for election supplies printed in San Francisco.

So far as The Terminal is concerned, we believe the advertising was fairly distributed to the dailies according to number of times published, and a daily should charge more than a weekly for advertising space, though their influence is the same; but county job printing is regulated by a scale of prices and is non-competitive, because the official who places an order is responsible to the supervisors, bills

Traction Company To Improve Service

Gradually the service of the Oakland-Richmond traction line is improving its service. Pay-as-you-enter cars will be put on this line the first of the month, which will end the scrambling at either end of the cars during the rush hours.
It is said the jitney "sear" has fell flat, and was only promoted and agitated by stock market manipulators. The traction companies are going ahead making improvements and extending their lines
the same as ever.
The increase in population and manufacturing industries call for extended transportation facilities.
The San Francisco-Oakland Terminal railway company is keeping apace with the times and meeting the requirements of an exacting public.

Alameda to Have Bathing Resort

The Surf Beach Amusement Co. is constructing a bathing resort at Alameda which will include one of the largest concrete swimming tanks in the United States. The tank will be 75x100 feet and will be lined with tile. There will be a large pavilion with maple floor, also the largest roller coaster in the country.

Telephone Company Granted Franchise

The Pacific Telegraph and Telephone Company has promised to go ahead with extensive improvements as soon as the franchise allowed by the city council is signed. It will provide for twenty free telephones for the city, a tax of two per cent upon the gross income of the company annually, and extend over a period of forty-one years.

H. C. CAPWELL CO.

H. C. CAPWELL CO.

Store Open Tonight
and FRIDAY
Until 10 O'clock P. M.

ALL INCOMPLETE GIFT
LISTS BEST FILLED HERE

If you are in doubt
Buy a Capwell Merchandise
Or Glove Order

WATCH FOR OUR
Year - End Sales
Monday, Dec. 27, 1915

H.C. Capwell Co.
THE LACE HOUSE
OAKLAND.

OLD FIRM NEW STORE
NEW STOCK

Everything the Very Latest in the Jewelry Line
Store Open Evenings UNTIL CHRISTMAS

W. N. JENKINS
JEWELER AND SILVERSMITH
N.W. Cor. 13th & Washington Sts. Oakland
Look for Street Clock

You
Can Buy
Your Xmas

FURS and WAISTS
On CREDIT

This solves a serious Christmas problem. Here you can buy now, wear now and pay next year. A few suggestions for Christmas presents are:
Fur Sets - $10 UP Silk Waists - $2.50 UP
Fur Scarfs - $5 UP Silk Underskirts - $1.50 UP

Open Till 10 P. M. THURSDAY & FRIDAY Evenings.

Eastern Outfitting Co.
581 Fourteenth St., OAKLAND

More Headaches

Are relieved with Glasses than with medicine. When your head aches and you feel tired and nervous, don't think you're ill—try wearing a pair of our Eyeglasses to relieve the strain on your eyes.
This is a simple remedy but very effective.

F. W. LAUFER

OPTICIAN 487 14th St., bet.
Broadway and Washington, Oakland

UNUSUAL
GIFT JEWELRY

A. F. Edwards
The Jeweler of Oakland

ESTABLISHED IN 1879
1227-1229 Broadway
Select your Xmas Gifts Early

Weekly Summary of World's News

GOLDEN STATE NEWS TERSLEY TOLD

Orland.—Orange shipping has begun here.

Sierra City.—There is four feet of snow on the Summit.

Red Bluff.—This city will have a municipal Christmas tree.

Culiac.—John T. Fagundes, 77, died recently at Yankee Jim's.

Lincoln.—Arthur Jones, 51, well known citizen, died recently.

Truckee.—The winter sports will begin here Christmas Day.

Nevada City.—Eleven inches of rain has fallen here so far this season.

Ashland.—The funeral of Robert T. Elder took place Tuesday, December 11.

Locust.—The Placer County Sunday School convention met here December 12.

Chico.—Committees have been chosen for the Spring Exposition to be held here.

Woodland.—John Meyers, Washington fisherman, was fined $100 for ship being undersized catch.

Chico.—Investigation is being made on the allegation that a number of high school boys have had liquor in their possession at school.

La Grange.—Mrs. Frey, who was burned in an automobile accident, may be saved by the grafting of sixty inches of skin given by her husband.

Woodland.—A team of horses valued at $200 belonging to Frank Galtup were recently electrocuted on the third rail of the Northern Electric railroad near here.

Cornucopia.—Olive oil from the Maywood Packing Company here was first test at the University of Pennsylvania.

Redding.—Alex. Tasson of Millville has been held on the charge of bigamy.

Martinez.—J. E. Morgans, rancher of Concord, was held up and robbed of a gold watch and $50.00 in cash by four men near the Southern Pacific depot December 15.

Woodland.—A felony warrant was issued December 16 for the arrest of A. L. Forsyth, cabinet maker of Davis, who is said to have deserted his wife and four small children on last September 22, leaving them without any means of support.

San Francisco.—Maury Diggs, co-defendant with Drew Caminetti in the most sensational "white slave" case dealt with by Federal authorities in this section of the country, and Marsha Warrington, one of the two girls taken to Reno by Diggs, became man and wife on December 15 in Oakland.

Hanford.—Former Sheriff W. V. Buckner of Kings county was recently appointed road overseer, and will have full control of the building, repair and upkeep of all roads of the county, at a salary of $3,600 a year. Kings is the first county of the San Joaquin valley to turn road work entirely over to one road builder.

Palo Alto.—W. H. Kelly, secretary of the Palo Alto Chamber of Commerce, and editor and publisher of the Times, has received word of his nomination to the office of Palo Alto Postmaster, to succeed present Postmaster Doherty, who has held office for the past thirteen years. Kelly is a leading Democrat of this section of California.

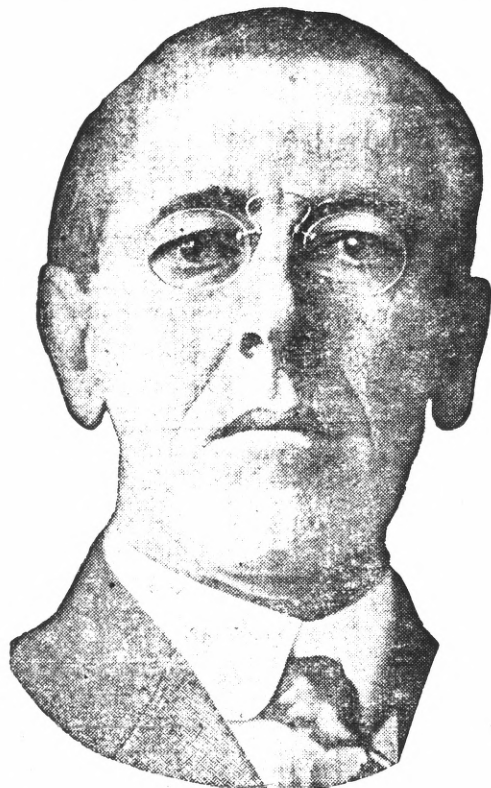

Elsinore.—Attacked by three bandits as they were leaving their store here December 16, E. C. Maury, 60 years old, was killed, and his son and daughter were perhaps fatally wounded. Robbery is said to have been the motive of the bandits, who used knives and guns in attacking their victims, and who fled west in the direction of Corona in an automobile.

San Jose.—The late Lamon V. Harkness, Standard Oil millionaire, left property in California valued at $2,355,488, according to the report of E. E. Holbrook, inheritance tax appraiser. From this is deducted $20,000 for attorney's fees, appraiser's fee, etc., leaving a net balance of $2,325,488.37. This calls for the payment of an inheritance tax of $123,577.74.

Redwood City.—Judge Geo. H. Buck December 16 sentenced Charles Erskine, a Fresno fruit packer, to serve two years in the penitentiary for arson. Erskine was found guilty of setting fire to his home at Moss Beach, which was insured for $1,500. During the Erskine trial J. Noland, a witness who was at tempting to prove an alibi for Erskine, was arrested on a charge of perjury.

Porterville.—Headed by G. Harold Powell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, through which is marketed nearly 60 per cent of the State's output of oranges, fifteen of the directors of the exchange were entertained at dinner here December 16 by leading fruit growers of the Porterville district, following a tour of inspection of orchards and packing houses. The object of the visit is closer co-operation between the Northern and Southern California producers in advertising, packing and marketing of their crops.

PRESIDENT WILSON AND HIS BRIDE

After a Quiet Home Wedding President and Bride Spend Honeymoon at Virginia Hot Springs

Washington.—President Wilson and Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt were married at 8:30 o'clock last Saturday night and left afterward to honeymoon at Hot Springs, Va.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, the President and Mrs. Wilson entered a waiting White House automobile and motored to Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac, to take their private car there and avoid a crowd at the railroad station in this city.

The car was attached to a special train leaving at 11:30 o'clock, which arrived in Hot Springs at 8:15 a. m. last Sunday.

After the President and his bride had departed, Secretary Tumulty made this formal statement on the ceremony:

"The wedding was marked with simplicity. It was just such a wedding as might have taken place in the home of the humblest American citizen."

The prayer-book which the officiating clergyman used once was the property of the late Judge William H. Bolling of Virginia, father of the bride, and was used at her request. Several guests added to the list at the last moment included Professor Stockton Axson, a brother of the late Mrs. Wilson; A. Bolling Galt, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Galt, the former a brother of Mrs. Wilson's first husband, and Mrs. Tumulty, the wife of Secretary Tumulty.

One of the added guests was Matilda Braxton, an old negro mammy of Wytheville, who has been a servant in the bride's family all her life.

"The ceremony was begun, as had been arranged, at 8:30 o'clock, and was followed by a buffet luncheon.

Mrs. Wilson was married in the traveling gown she wore to the train. The President dined as usual at the White House at 7 o'clock with his daughters, and afterward drove to his bride's home, about a mile from the Executive Mansion. A cold, driving rain, which swept the city all day, cleared off at sunset and the evening was cool and pleasant.

Everything was in readiness for the ceremony when the President arrived and it proceeded without music.

On the first floor of the bride's home, in two communicating rooms, a wedding bower had been arranged with a background of farbyanase and maidenhair ferns, which extended from the floor to the ceiling. Overhead there was a canopy of green in the form of a shell, lined with Scotch heather.

In the background and at the center was placed a large mirror framed with orchids and reflecting the scene. Above the mirror was a spray of orchids across a background of ferns and the corners of the canopy were caught with orchids. American beauty roses were on both sides of the canopy, beneath which was a prayer rug, on which President Wilson and Mrs. Galt knelt during the ceremony.

Just at the hour for the ceremony the President and his bride appeared at the head of the staircase, which was decorated with ferns, asparagus vines and American beauty roses. They descended to the lower floor, where the guests were grouped about informally.

Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Protestant Episcopal church, of which the bride is a communicant, was waiting beneath the canopy to perform the ceremony, and with him to assist was the President's pastor, Rev. James H. Taylor of the Central Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. William H. Bolling, the bride's mother, gave her away. The President stood to the right of the clergyman and the bride stood on their left. At once Dr. Smith began the words of the Episcopal marriage service, the President making his response first, and then the bride making hers. After the bride promised to "love, cherish and obey," the President placed the wedding ring, a plain band of gold, upon her finger, and then, after a prayer, and while the couple clasped their right hands together Dr. Smith declared them man and wife. The brief and simple ceremony was over.

The entire party then turned to the dining-room, where a buffet supper was served. The decorations there were in pink and on the buffets were banked growing ferns and pink roses. The tables were decorated with Lady Stanley rose blossoms. On a table in the center was the wedding cake—a fruit cake of several layers, high, ornamented with sprays of pink orchids in the center.

Mrs. Wilson cut the cake, without formality and no arrangement was made for bestowing bits of it on others than those in the wedding party.

During the ceremony and at the luncheon afterward, during which a string orchestra played, the bride wore her traveling dress, a black silk velvet gown with a picture hat of black beaver, with no trimmings whatever except one feather slightly upturned on the left side. At her throat she wore the President's wedding gift, a magnificent diamond brooch.

The skirt of her gown was of walking length and cut on full lines. The waist had silken embroidery of blue, shading from the deep tones of royal blue to delicate shades of pastel, and was threaded with silver.

The lower part of the waist was embroidered on black net over a band of silver in the design of lilies, below which was a girdle of black velvet. The sleeves of the gown were of black net fashioned in tiny tufts with long bell-shaped cuffs of embroidered velvet, which came well down over the hand. Her collar, which was high and upstanding, was of black lace. When she left on her honeymoon journey, Mrs. Wilson wore over her gown a fur coat of broad-tail with bands of Yukon and mink to match. She wore a chin chain collar.

Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter, wore a sapphire blue velvet gown with sapphire and velvet trimmings. Mrs. William G. McAdoo, his youngest daughter, wore blue silk brocade with fur and silver trimmings. Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, the third daughter, wore rose chamoise with cream lace. Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's cousin, wore yellow silk and gold.

Mrs. Bolling, the bride's mother, wore a costume of richly jetted net over an underskirt of satin appliqued in king's blue. A short train was caught at the left side of the girdle with a cluster of pink crushed roses. She wore old camoes, set in pearls, which she wore as a bride.

Mrs. W. H. Maury of Anniston, Ala., a sister of the bride, wore white crepe and silver net, with a court train of cream crepe, embroidered in leaf sprays of gold. A single moon flower caught her corsage at the waist. Mrs. Alexander H. Galt of this city, another sister, wore robin-egg blue chiffon velvet with silver bands and black tulle sash with crushed roses. Miss Bertha Bolling, the bride's third sister, wore a gown of turquoise blue. Above a full skirt of blue chiffon over white lace flounces, fell a panier draped overskirt of blue tulle, embroidered in gold and silver. The bodice of chiffon was over heavy bands of gold lace and a high girdle was of flower-embroidered silk.

Upstairs in the bride's house one room was set aside for the wedding gifts, which ran into the hundreds, despite intimations from the White House that nothing should be sent by any others than relatives and close friends.

vet, which came well down over the hand. Her collar, which was high and upstanding, was of black lace. When she left on her honeymoon journey, Mrs. Wilson wore over her gown a fur coat of broad-tail with bands of Yukon and mink to match. She wore a chin chain collar.

Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter, wore a sapphire blue velvet gown with sapphire and velvet trimmings. Mrs. William G. McAdoo, his youngest daughter, wore blue silk brocade with fur and silver trimmings. Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, the third daughter, wore rose chamoise with cream lace. Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's cousin, wore yellow silk and gold.

Mrs. Bolling, the bride's mother, wore a costume of richly jetted net over an underskirt of satin appliqued in king's blue. A short train was caught at the left side of the girdle with a cluster of pink crushed roses. She wore old camoes, set in pearls, which she wore as a bride.

Mrs. W. H. Maury of Anniston, Ala., a sister of the bride, wore white crepe and silver net, with a court train of cream crepe, embroidered in leaf sprays of gold. A single moon flower caught her corsage at the waist. Mrs. Alexander H. Galt of this city, another sister, wore robin-egg blue chiffon velvet with silver bands and black tulle sash with crushed roses. Miss Bertha Bolling, the bride's third sister, wore a gown of turquoise blue. Above a full skirt of blue chiffon over white lace flounces, fell a panier draped overskirt of blue tulle, embroidered in gold and silver. The bodice of chiffon was over heavy bands of gold lace and a high girdle was of flower-embroidered silk.

Upstairs in the bride's house one room was set aside for the wedding gifts, which ran into the hundreds, despite intimations from the White House that nothing should be sent by any others than relatives and close friends.

Upstairs in the bride's house one room was set aside for the wedding gifts, which ran into the hundreds, despite intimations from the White House that nothing should be sent by any others than relatives and close friends.

WOMAN WANTED TO BE SENT TO SAN QUENTIN

Hopes to Get Medical Attention
She Needs While Serving Term

Stockton.—Mrs. Marguerite Lovelace, aged 23, who entered a restaurant here Tuesday, December 14, and held up the proprietor at the point of a pistol, pleaded guilty December 17 and was sentenced to San Quentin for three years.

"That's just what I wanted," she said as she was led from the courtroom. "I suppose they have a good doctor at San Quentin and I can have the medical treatment I need."

The jail physician who examined the youthful prisoner declared she is in a serious condition. Walking up to the proprietor of the restaurant the girl calmly drew a revolver and demanded money. She took the contents of the cash register, amounting to about $20.

Not Quite.
There is one American political institution which Ambassador Dumba does not endorse.
"What is that?"
"The recall."

A VIRGINIA CHRISTMAS IN 1864

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat for her guests, brought out with a glow of pride, a steaming urn of real—not sassafras—tea, $100 a pound, at the same time warning the company that they must expect but one cup apiece, as this was the last of her store. After this there was "coffee" made from sweet potatoes cut into little bits, toasted brown and ground to powder. Such was a Confederate Christmas dinner in the last winter of the war. From superb repast the scale descended to army rations—a bit of salt pork, corn bread and sweet potato coffee without sugar. The company consisted of three ladies and four gentlemen. The ladies' toilets their cannot venture to describe, but they were largely made up of "home made" articles in the fashion prevailing at the commencement of the war. The tresses of one were fastened with "Confederate hair pins," made of long black thorns with the heads tipped with sealing wax and the dress was of simple homespun.

Christmas day in Virginia, 1864, was the Confederate Christmas par excellence. Outside supplies of all kinds had disappeared, and whatever comforts were provided were of home manufacture. The Confederate dollar was now worth just two cents in gold, and flour was $500 a barrel; sugar was thirty dollars a pound; salt, one dollar; butter, forty dollars; and beef, twenty-four dollars to forty dollars a pound. Wood at $100 a cord and coal was not to be had, save in a few of the cities, owing to scarcity of transportation. The day was Sunday, which in itself, would have tempered the usual merriment. At a country residence, below Richmond, and not far from the lines of the contending armies, a party of seven—ladies and gentlemen all in the strictest Southern sense of the term—were assembled at dinner. The mansion had been proverbial for its hospitality before the war, now the welcome was as cordial as ever, but the board was spread in accordance with the necessities of the time. At the head of the table was placed a large ham, worth $300; at the foot was the last turkey the farm could boast, worth $175. The vegetables consisted of cabbage, potatoes and hominy, worth at a reasonable calculation, $100. Corn bread was served, flour having been unknown in this house for months. The meal of which it was made was worth eighty dollars a bushel and the salt that seasoned it ten dollars a pound. Desert there was none, but in its place the hostess provided a coarse black molasses, worth sixty dollars a gallon. The same kind lady, as a rare treat

Christmas Gift

Problems Are Easily Solved Here

Give Magazine Subscriptions or Smith Bros.
Merchandise
Orders

Christmas Books
Fountain Pens
Kodaks & Supplies
Gift Stationery
Christmas Cards
Novelty Jewelry
Leather Goods

SMITH BROTHERS

13th St., bet. Broadway and Washington

Holiday Excursion Fares

for Christmas and New Year's

SALE DATES
CHRISTMAS—Dec. 23, 24, 25
Return Limit Jan. 3
NEW YEAR'S—Dec. 30, 31, Jan. 1
Return Limit Jan. 3

For Tickets and Train Service
Ask Southern Pacific Agent

L. RICHARDSON,
Dist. Frt. & Pass. Agt.
Broadway and 13th St., Oakland
Phone, Oakland 162

H. A. STIVER,
Agent,
Richmond

SOUTHERN PACIFIC
SUNSET
ODEN & SHASTA
ROUTES
FIRST IN SAFETY

AUTO SERVICE PHONE 598

Arthur A. Barber & Co.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS
263 Fourth St., Richmond

Lady attendants for all Ladies' and Children's cases

E. H. Higgins

General Contractor

RICHMOND, CAL.

Phone Richmond 769-W

---

BRILLIANT JEWELRY CO.
704 Market St., S. F.
We Trust Any Honest Person

N. C. Anderson

Agent
613 Macdonald Ave.,
Richmond, Cal.

Easy Payments $1.00 Per Week
Phone Richmond 10

The S. P. announces a lower rate on fruit, fish and meats to Montana.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

State and County Taxes for the Fiscal Year 1918-1919.

Office of the Collector of State and County Taxes, Martinez.

Notice is hereby given that I have received from the Auditor of Contra Costa county the duplicate assessment book for the fiscal year 1918-1919 and.

That the taxes on all personal property secured by real property, and one-half of the taxes on all real property, is due and payable on the Third Monday in October, and will be delinquent on the first Monday in December next thereafter, at six o'clock p. m., and that unless paid prior thereto fifteen per cent will be added to the amount thereof, and that if said one-half be not paid before the Last Monday in April next, an additional five per cent will be added thereto. That the remaining one-half of the taxes on all real property will be payable on and after the 21st Monday in January next, and will be delinquent on the Last Monday in April, next thereafter, at six o'clock p. m., and unless paid prior thereto, five per cent will be added to the amount thereof. That all taxes may be paid at the time the first installment, as herein provided, is due and payable.

Taxes are due and payable at the office of the Tax Collector, in the Courthouse at Martinez, Contra Costa county, California.

MARTIN W. JOOST,
Tax Collector Contra Costa County,
Nov. 28th.

Bank Clearances.

The following are the bank clearances for November of the principal California cities:

San Francisco	$253,298,089
Los Angeles	95,046,707
Oakland	17,713,299
Sacramento	10,220,428
San Diego	8,560,616

P. P. O. S. No. 130.

Richmond Patriotic and Protective Order of Stags, Drove No. 130. Installed officers for the year 1916 as follows:

Exalted Director—H. J. Beyer.
Prelate—M. Michaels.
Senior Warden—C. P. LeBrun.
Junior Warden—H. B. Somerville.
Recorder—H. L. Springer.
Treasurer—J. E. Cooke.
Inside Guard—D. Church.
Outside Guard—L. Gillan.
Trustee—Geo. W. Ryan.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Advertisements in this column are per insertion, not exceeding 3 lines. Special rates by the month—cash in advance.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Lots 12 and 14, blk. 15, Turpin add., Richmond. For price write C. E. Rogers, Windom, Minn.

"PHONIES."

FOR SALE—I have already received 17 pairs of slippers as X-mas presents; will exchange the whole invoice for laying hens, or what have you? Dad, Box D

Bargain—Neckties and handkerchiefs; all my relatives doubled up on sending Xmas presents. I have enough neckties to start a store; would exchange for baby carriage. "Bill," Bearit ave.

Found—Twenty dollar gold piece with a string to it; owner can have the string. Dept Q

THE TERMINAL

ESTABLISHED IN 1902
Local City and County Paper.

GEO. W. RYAN—Publisher and Editor

Terms of Subscription:
One year, in advance $2.00
Six months in advance $1.00
Advertising rates on application.

Entered as second-class matter June 22, 1903, at Richmond, California, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Legal notices must be paid for on or before delivery of affidavit of publication. No exception to this rule.

3

"For the cause that lacks assistance,
Against the wrong that needs resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that we can do."

Fresno will have a Christmas Science church to seal 850.

The Richmond Terminal is the only republican newspaper in Richmond.

State Treasurer Richardson says the expenses of the state are $270 per minute.

Begin paying up now. Then you'll not be handicapped when you "sweat off."

A Macdonald avenue wag sprung this on his French friend last week: "France is going to make beer from frog's hops."

Federal Judge Van Fleet is from Missouri. He had to be "shown" as to whether San Pablo channel was navigable or not.

A local pawnbroker lost a bride or two weeks. She went back to "old Fresno town." She couldn't stay in "hock" any longer.

Fraternism is a good thing—push it along. But don't get so much of it in your system that the Golden Rule has "wrong font" numbers on it.

The annual city printing fiasco in regard to the "lowest bidder" is now about to be perpetrated on an "unsuspecting" public again. Last year there was a "wait" for the alleged labor organ, which "spilled the beans" in submitting its bid. Notice the "calm repose" of aforesaid alleged "labor organ" now. Has the pie counter been readjusted?

G. E. Milnes, business manager of the Record-Herald, is devoting his time to his Chico prohibition daily, which is one of the leading organs in the "dry belt." There is nothing like being "versatile" even in conducting newspapers. Editor Milnes is equal to the "emergency." Dry Chico or wet Richmond—editorials to fit either end of the route.

An exchange remarks: "There are signs that European countries are beginning a wholesale campaign for skilled mechanics." American labor is much appreciated by all the belligerents, especially in those trades which have to do with shipbuilding. If the navy yards of this country want efficient American workmen to build dreadnaughts or repair obsolete war craft, the civil service age clause should be temporarily suspended and a substitute provided whereby skilled American mechanics could be employed on government shipbuilding at the various navy yards and iron works.

Wanted Good cook at Bachelor Heights, Bearit ave.; female preferred; must speak Spanish and be up on chili dishes. Bill.

Wanted A good cook on custard pies. Address "Bill," 519 Bareit.

Wanted To exchange some mining stock for good legal advice. "Emma," Box D.

Wanted A "Safety First" device to give warning of the approach of holiday canvassers. Address, "Easy Money," Box D.

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

A. C. Shannon

CONDUCTS A FIRST-CLASS
BARBER SHOP at 402 Macdonald Avenue

---

YOU COULD HAVE DONE BETTER
AT THE RICHMOND TERMINAL

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 6th day of October, A. D. 1914,

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

NOTICE.

To all owners and claimants of all or any right, title, interest, possession, in or to, or any lien or incumbrance upon, the real property hereinafter described: TAKE NOTICE, that on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1914, the Superintendent of Streets in and for the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, sold for delinquent assessment for the opening and extending of Eighth street, in the said city, the following real property situate, lying and being in the said City of Richmond, County and State aforesaid, and described thus: Assessment lot number 228, as the same is delineated and so designated upon that certain map or plat entitled "Plat Showing Land Required and Land Assessed and Assessed District for Opening Eighth Street," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Contra Costa, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1914; that the said sale was made to L. Feigenbaum who was the purchaser of said sale, and to whom, and in the name of whom, the certificate of said sale was issued, said sale being number 23, that the amount or sum for which the said real property was sold was five and 25/100 dollars; that the amount or sum now due is eight and 30/100 dollars; that the time for redemption of the said real property from the said sale will expire on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1916; and that, unless redeemed, said purchaser will apply for a deed of the said real property on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916.

Witness my hand:
L. FEIGENBAUM,
Purchaser and owner of the said certificate of sale.
(Dec. 10-17-24-31; Jan. 7.)

FOLLOW THE FLAG

TO THE
Nicholl-Macdonald Civic Center Tract
Where the New City Hall Is Being Built

New Buildings at Twenty-Third and Macdonald Ave.

BURG BROS.

231 and Macdonald, Richmond 660 Market St., San Francisco

Bread Twice a Day at The

POPULAR BAKERY

With Free Delivery Service

COFFEE PARLOR and CONFECTIONERY
In connection.

A. Hoefler & Co. 417 Macdonald Avenue
Phone 591.

Richmond Pharmacy

724 Macdonald Avenue

E. M. FERGUSON, DRUGGIST

Rexall Goods Photo Supplies

Richmond Agency for Eastman's Goods

PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS A SPECIALTY

TILDEN LUMBER CO.

E. M. TILDEN, President

Price --- Quality --- Service

Yards: Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond, Crockett

Office and Mill: 15th St. and Nevin Ave. Phone Richmond 81

PHONE RICHMOND 703

HARBOR CREAMERY CO.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

Butter, Eggs, Cheese, Milk
Cream, and Ice Cream

PROMPT DELIVERY

512 MACDONALD AVENUE RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA

The Modern GAS RANGE a Money Saver

The double oven of the up-to-date Cabinet Gas Range is a money saving feature.

One set of burners heats both ovens. One heat serves a double purpose—at a single cost.

GAS HEAT CAN BE REGULATED.

Once the flame is set, it stays so. Gas heat is instantaneous. The little simmering burner saves gas and Produces better results.

There are many improvements in the Modern Gas Range. SEE FOR YOURSELF. Visit the local dealers. See Demonstrations.

Pacific Gas & Electric Co.

709 MACDONALD AVENUE PHONE RICHMOND 531

Phone 678-J 2552 Castro Ave.

COAL

C. J. LAMBRECHT
Dealer in COAL, Wood and Feed.

We also carry Blacksmith Coal